Section Title(S)

8. Bridge building. Lyon lineage builds a bridge across the River Aya. • Chapter 4. Markets and Prices.

There was some attempt to charge toll on the bridge the first few days after it was erected. However, the water was not yet very high so most people waded. A party of Bamenda traders did pay 6d. but that seems to have been the only payment actually made. Within a few days, Lyon had, except for an occasional joke, forgotten that they had thought it possible to extort toll from users of the bridge.

Chapter 4. Markets and Prices.

lyon market is small, but important. We have several inventories of goods offered for sale in it during the spring of 1950, and we found in the files of the Agricultural Office at Yandev, records of prices on various commodities in Lyon market from 1934 to 1939. At that period, the Agricultural Department had demonstration farms in Shangev, north of Lyon lineage; the agricultural assistants kept records of prices at Lyon market. The record ceases, of course, after this demonstration farm was shut down. Following are prices of selected items from 1934 to 1939, month by month, and an inventory and chart of goods offered for sale on 11 May 1950.
